Session Overview:

A major theme of last fall's international ODN conference was using complexity science as a lens for organizational change. Over the past year, one important theme of GOOD Network meetings has been leadership development. Please join us for the April 7th meeting of the GOOD Network in which these two themes will be woven into one approach designed to enhance our abilities to successfully navigate organizational growth and change.

During this session, we will investigate how to improve our own performance and support the leaders with whom we work in both overly turbulent and excessively static times. Using both experiential and more traditional learning styles, we will explore the "change within the change" that helps us hone our intuition and ability to respond appropriately and effectively to new, emergent challenges. During this session we will discuss the simple rules for leading that can improve leadership effectiveness and organizational innovation. Finally, we will consider what happens when reflection is linked to purposeful action.

This session will move from theory to practice to synthesis and should be a great opportunity to improve your own leadership paradigms and skills.

Directions to Rollins College – Cornell Campus Center:

From I-4 in either direction, take the Fairbanks exit and go to Park Avenue. The Rollins gates will be on your right, but you should turn left and go to either Comstock or Lyman Streets and turn right. In the middle of the first block, there is an entrance to the Rollins parking garage. After parking, go to the light and crosswalk over Fairbanks at Park Avenue. Walk down Park Ave. to Holt Ave. and make a left. When you reach the flagpole in the center of campus, turn and walk towards the lake. The Cornell Campus Center is the 2nd building past the flagpole (#14 on the attached map). Come in the main entrance and make an immediate left to the Bieberbach Room.

Continental breakfast will be served and parking validation tickets will be provided.
